PARISH MISSION STATEMENT

Old Saint Mary's Cathedral & Chinese Mission is a culturally diverse Catholic community which seeks to evangelize in the light of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

A MINISTRY OF THE PAULIST FATHERS

OLD SAINT MARY'S, built in 1854 as California's first Cathedral, was the first Cathedral to be named in honor of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. The Paulist Fathers were given Pastoral responsibilities of Old St. Mary's in 1894 and have faithfully ministered to the people of Chinatown, Nob Hill and the Financial District ever since. A Survivor of the 1906 earthquake and fire, this major historical landmark has been retrofitted to meet new seismic codes; however, we must now comply with the American Disability Act and refurbish the interior of this beautiful old cathedral. Your prayer and financial support today will help save this beautiful landmark, preserve its rich history, and continue the welcoming presence of Old Saint Mary's Cathedral and Chinese Mission.

WELCOME TO OLD SAINT MARY'S CATHEDRAL

POPE JOHN, ISAAC HECKER AND THE HOLY SPIRIT (Part 2)

The Eastern churches have always nourished a devotion to the Holy Spirit. Roncalli got to know everyone from the Patriarch of Constantinople to the woman who swept the streets in front of his home. He saw how the Holy Spirit guided the lives of these people who had become his friends. The feast of Pentecost came to have a new meaning for him. He began to preach with a special fervor each Pentecost Sunday.

Roncalli's understanding of the Holy Spirit deepened during the Nazi occupation of these Eastern countries from 1942-45. This was a time of darkness for everyone, when hope must have seemed a dangerous illusion. Seeing that Jewish lives were in danger, Roncalli established a working relationship with the German ambassador, who despite representing Hitler was a Catholic. Using every means at his disposal, Roncalli was able to save the lives of many Jews—so many that long after Pope John's death, the International Raoul Wallenberg Foundation recommended that he be named "righteous among the nations."

One of Archbishop Roncalli's annual Pentecost homilies from Istanbul had a special poignancy. It was May, 1944. Everyone was exhausted by the horrors of World War II. Many believed that the war was almost over. But what would come next?

The Archbishop urged his listeners to open their hearts to the Holy Spirit, "still at work in the world, mysteriously yet powerfully...only the Spirit can break down the barriers set up by races and nations. Left to itself, humanity regresses and begins to resemble one of those iron-age villages, in which every house was an impenetrable fortress, and people lived among their fortifications.

"We can all find plausible reasons for stressing differences in race, religion, culture, or education. Catholics, in particular, like to mark themselves off from 'the others.' My brothers and sisters, I have to tell you that in the light of the gospel and the Catholic principal, this logic of division does not hold. Jesus comes to break down all these barriers."

Nearly two decades after proclaiming these words, Pope John XXIII died on a Pentecost Sunday. Just months earlier he had presided over the opening of the Council which would begin the process of breaking down long-prevailing barriers between Christians, and of recognizing the Jewish people not as enemies but as our elder brothers and sisters in faith.

Pope John XXIII and Fr. Isaac Hecker never met one another. It is unlikely that either even knew about the other. Yet these two Spirit-led priests taught us ways to break down walls and build bridges. They both drew strength from the intuition that hope is a more reliable guide to living than fear. In encountering each of their stories I've come to understand that the Holy Spirit is not the vague mystery I once puzzled over but a living reality that inspires the best efforts of our lives.

Trinity Sunday, also known as Holy Trinity Sunday, is celebrated a week after Pentecost Sunday in honor of the most fundamental of Christian beliefs - belief in the Holy Trinity. The Catholic Church celebrates a special occasion on this weekend. It is called "Corpus Christi." It celebrates that in ordinary looking bread or wafer, lives the Risen Christ. The extraordinary lives in the appearance of the ordinary. A person who pursues a contemplative life of prayer can look quite ordinary, but their developing union with the Divine, energizes them to lead a life that reflects this extraordinary presence. As well, Catholics who receive Holy Communion, are graced to reflect the Risen Christ in their everyday life. How? Come and listen.

The Talk will be recorded and can be found on paulist.org and then look for "Things to Know." Refreshments provided. Talk is free but donations are welcome. Call 303-442-6158 for more information.
